Food - Eating seasonally

Pumpkins from Mexico

Coffee from Brazil

The weather and temperature in each country in the Not all fruits and vegetables can be grown world, depends on which climate group that country is in Britain. Many foods are imported Climate located. There are five climate groups: polar, temperate, from all across the globe. dry, tropical and mediterranean. Here are some examples: Less than 250mm of rain, fog, sleet or snow in total Plums from China Dry climate Cod from Iceland across a whole year. When products or produce, such as fruit and vegetables, Exported are sent to another country. When products or produce, such as fruit and vegetables, Imported are brought into a' country. Mediterranean Hot dry summers and cooler wetter winters. climate Belonging to a particular country (e.g. a person with Italian nationality comes from Italy). Nationality Olives from Greece Substances in food that all living things need to make Nutrients energy, grow and develop. Polar climate Long periods of extreme cold. Watermelons from South Africa A set of instructions for making or preparing a food item Recipe or dish. Soya beans from Canada Food that can be harvested and is ready to eat in a Seasonal food particular season. The seasons of the year are spring, summer, autumn and Seasons winter. Temperate Mild temperatures, where the summers are not too hot Cranberries from America and the winters are not too cold. climate High temperatures and a lot of rain. This is where you Tropical climate will find the world's rainforests.

Fruits and vegetables are full of vitamins, minerals and fibre. These nutrients help us to grow, heal, give us energy and keep us healthy.

