Dear Parents/Carers,

Safeguarding

I'd like to take the opportunity to highlight safeguarding resources that parents and carers will find useful to use at home. The importance of online safety has never been more important and the NSPCC has some excellent advice on many different topics. This week I'd like to highlight their Online Safety Advice. Advice on how to start the conversation about being safe online and get support if you're worried.

A 'HELLO' from the SENDCo!

Hello everyone. I wanted to take this opportunity to signpost you all to some information and updates...

In the first instance, if you have a concern about your child in school and their learning it is always best to contact the class teacher. They know your child well and so can discuss these concerns with you. If further advice /support is then needed - that's where I come in!

If your child already has a Special Educational Need and is on the Record of Need (RON) you will have meetings with their class teacher to discuss individual targets and support in school. These meetings should happen termly (3 times a year). If you haven't had a SEND meeting this term with a class teacher and feel you should have, please contact the school to discuss.

The school website, in the Inclusion section has all statutory SEND documents for you to refer to, should you wish to.

In future correspondence I will giving local SEND updates and signposting you to any useful links etc.

Bye for now!!

Mrs Suzanne Le-Doux-Lucas.

Jewellery and Toys in School

We have noticed that there are a number of children wearing necklaces, bracelets and other items of jewellery. Please can we remind parents/carers that jewellery is not allowed in school.

We have also seen an increase in children bringing in items/toys from home. We understand there are occasions where an item from home is relevant to your child's learning or special as it represents an achievement outside of school, we encourage your child to continue to share these with their class teachers. It is specifically toys and belongings from home, some of which have unfortunately been broken or lost whilst in school, that we are discouraging.

Water Bottles

Please can water be sent in children's drink bottles as we are seeing an increasing amount of juice/cordial being sent in to drink throughout the day. Water is best for staying hydrated.

PE Clubs

After School Clothing

Please provide a PE Kit for all of our after school clubs: It does not have to be their school kit but should be suitable for being active and include appropriate footwear.

Monday	Playground Games
Tuesday	Football Club	Children will also need shin pads and football boots
	Netball Club
Thursday	Cross Country	Lunchtime Club - wear trainers and have a spare pair of socks
	Tag Rugby
	Dance Club
